AUDIT, RISK AND COMPLIANCE COMMITTEE CHARTER

ANNEXURE 1 – Datatec Policy on Non-Audit Services

Introduction

The group's external auditors are required to be independent of Datatec both in fact and in appearance in order to maintain their credibility and effectively fulfil their primary role as the group's auditors. The provision of extensive levels or certain types of other services to the group may impair their independence or be perceived to do so.

On the other hand, management should always select outside service providers based on obtaining the best value for those services. Where the best value is offered by the external auditors we should not be biased against using them for allowable services.

The most restrictive auditor independence rules are those of the Securities & Exchange Commission (SEC) of the USA which have recently been extended in terms of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. This policy is consistent with these rules.

In addition, the Sarbanes-Oxley Act has introduced pre-approval requirements for non-audit services. This is consistent with the recommendations of King IV™. In view of this, the following policy sets out the expectation of the Datatec Limited audit committee on services which may or may not be considered by management from the group's external auditors.

As a general guideline, the group's spending on tax services and other non-audit services from the external auditors should not exceed our spending on audit and audit-related services as defined below. The actual spending will be reviewed annually by the audit committee against this guideline.

In addition, certain types of services by the group's external auditors are prohibited altogether. These are listed under category "A" below. Others (listed under "B" below) are not considered to impair auditor independence and are therefore regarded as pre-approved for the year ahead. Services which do not fall into either of these categories are subject to specific pre-approval as detailed under "C" below.

A. Prohibited services

The following types of non-audit services are regarded as incompatible with the role of the external auditor. These must be avoided in all cases.

1. Bookkeeping or other services related to the accounting records or financial statements of the company. The proscribed services are
 - (a) maintaining or preparing the company's accounting records,
 - (b) preparing the Datatec Limited or consolidated financial statements or the information that forms the basis of the financial statements,
 - (c) preparing or originating source data underlying the company's financial statements.
2. Design and implementation of financial information systems that aggregate source data or generate information that is significant to the financial statements taken as a whole, unless it is reasonable to conclude that the results of these services will not be subject to audit procedures during the audit of the company's financial statements. This rule does not preclude the auditor from working on hardware or software systems that are unrelated to the company's financial statements or accounting records.
3. Valuation or Appraisal services. The auditor shall not perform any type of valuation or appraisal for the company. It shall be permissible for the auditor to provide an opinion on valuations performed by management or by other parties and to provide an opinion on the adequacy of consideration in a transaction such as a fair and reasonable opinion. This rule does not prohibit the auditing firm from providing valuation services for non-financial reporting purposes (e.g., transfer pricing studies, cost-segregation studies and other tax-only valuations).

4. Actuarial services involving amounts recorded in the financial statements and related accounts for the company where it is reasonably likely that the results of these services will be subject to audit procedures during an audit of the company's financial statements. This prohibition extends to providing the company with any actuarially-oriented advisory service involving the determination of amounts recorded in the financial statements and related accounts for the company other than assisting the company in understanding the methods, models, assumptions and inputs used in computing an amount.
5. Internal audit outsourcing services relating to the internal accounting controls, financial systems or financial statements of the company. This prohibition on outsourcing does not preclude the auditor from providing attest services related to internal controls, evaluating the company's internal controls during the audit or making recommendations for improvements to the controls, or management from engaging the auditor to perform "agreed-upon procedures" engagements related to the company's internal controls.
6. Management functions. This rule prohibits the auditor from acting, temporarily or permanently, as a director, officer or employee of the company or performing any decision-making, supervisory or monitoring function for the company. However, the auditor may assess the effectiveness of the company's internal controls and recommend improvements in the design and implementation of internal controls and risk management controls.
7. Human resources functions. The auditor may not seek out prospective candidates for managerial, executive or director positions, act as negotiator on the company's behalf such as determining position, compensation or fringe benefits or other conditions of employment or undertake reference checks of prospective candidates. The auditor may also not engage in psychological testing or other formal testing or evaluation or recommend or advise the company to hire a specific candidate for a specific job.
8. Broker or dealer, investment adviser, or investment banking services. The auditor is prohibited from serving as promoter or underwriter, making investment decisions on behalf of the company or otherwise having discretionary authority over the company's investments, or executing a transaction to buy or sell an investment of the company.
9. Legal services that could be provided only by someone licensed, admitted or otherwise qualified to practice law in the jurisdiction in which the service is provided.
10. Expert services in an advocacy capacity unrelated to the audit. This precludes engagements that are intended to result in the audit firm's specialised knowledge, experience and expertise being used to support the company's positions in adversarial proceedings. This prohibits the auditor from providing expert opinions or other services to the company or a legal representative of the company for the purpose of advocating the company's interests in litigation, or regulatory or administrative investigations or proceedings. This rule does not however preclude the company from engaging the auditor to perform internal investigations or fact-finding engagements including forensic work and using the results of this work in subsequently initiated proceedings or investigations.
11. Custody of assets. The auditor may not have custody of any of the company's assets (including investments covered in 8 above) except that the auditor may act as liquidator of a subsidiary of the company but only in the case of a members' voluntary liquidation and temporary custody of the company's assets occurring in this process shall be permitted.

AUDIT, RISK AND COMPLIANCE COMMITTEE CHARTER

B. Pre-approved types of services

Certain types of non-audit services are generally not perceived to impair auditor independence and are therefore pre-approved for consideration by management for the next year. These services are to be covered by engagement letters to be approved by the Committee annually or by specific engagement letters for individual projects.

Whenever there is doubt as to whether a specific type of service offered by the group's auditors may fall within the list below, specific pre-approval for the proposed service should be obtained in line with the procedures stipulated under C below.

The following types of services are considered to be acceptable from the group's external auditors subject to falling within the scope of their engagement letter(s) as noted above:

1. Audit services that would normally be provided by the auditor in connection with statutory or regulatory filings or engagements including:
 - (a) the annual statutory audit of the company's financial statements;
 - (b) interim reviews of the company's condensed financial statements;
 - (c) procedures relating to elements of the financial statements, in terms of compliance with contracts or regulations such as bank covenants and securitisation agreements;
 - (d) consultation and research related to financial reporting and regulatory matters affecting the company's financial statements;
 - (e) assistance with registration statements including comfort letters; and
 - (f) working capital adequacy letters.

2. Audit-related services that traditionally are performed by the auditor:
 - (a) assistance to management or internal audit in its evaluation and documentation of internal controls;
 - (b) audit services to related entities such as employee benefit plans; and
 - (c) accounting consultations, audits and due diligence procedures in connection with acquisitions, divestures and other potential transactions.

3. Tax services performed by professional staff in the auditor's tax division:
 - (a) Tax compliance including the preparation of original and amended tax returns, claims for refund and tax payment-planning services;
 - (b) Tax planning and tax advice including assistance with tax audits and appeals, tax advice related to mergers and acquisitions, employee benefit plans and requests for rulings or technical advice from taxing authorities; and
 - (c) tax compliance and other services to Datatec expatriates.

4. Other permitted services:

Information security consulting where management retains explicit responsibility for making and implementing all decisions.

AUDIT, RISK AND COMPLIANCE COMMITTEE CHARTER

C. Services for which specific audit committee pre-approval is required

Specific audit committee pre-approval is required for services which are not included in the above list of pre-approved types of services. Any proposed services which involve contingent fee arrangements should be specifically pre-approved.

Pre-approval may be granted in writing either by the audit committee, its Chair or any independent member of the audit committee to whom this authority has been delegated by the audit committee. Where pre-approval is granted by an individual member of the audit committee, the matter should be tabled for noting at the next meeting of the full Datatec Limited audit committee.

All requests for such spending should be forwarded to the Chief Financial Officer for submission to the audit committee. PwC will be advised that they may not begin any work without confirmation from the Chief Financial Officer that the work has been approved.

D. Limit on Non-Audit Services

The Non-Audit fees charged in any financial year of the company shall not exceed 25% (twenty-five percent) of the audit fees charged by the external auditor in a financial year.
